ORDERING INFORMATION & TERMS

May 2017

Dear Atlas Authorized Dealers and Distributors,

Welcome to the May 2017 Atlas ASMC dealer/distributor edition of product Announcements and Arrivals. Each individual All Scales Monthly Catalog (ASMC) is based on the bi-annual All Scales Catalog (ASC) that is released in January and July of each year.

Both catalogs—the All Scales Catalog (ASC) and the All Scales Monthly Catalog (ASMC)–represent the core of Atlas's unique marketing and sales strategy for authorized Atlas dealers and distributors.

The All Scales Catalog (ASC) provides an overview of Atlas planned product announcements and arrivals for the following six months. The All Scales Monthly Catalog (ASMC) focuses in on each month's planned and specified announcements and allows dealers and distributors to place guaranteed pre-orders for those specific products by a given date.

Both catalogs are widely distributed and shared with thousands of dedicated Atlas consumer fans in accordance with their scale preference. This distribution is accomplished through targeted electronic messaging as well as hard copy mailings and freebies at shows.

Atlas authorized dealers and distributors are also encouraged to distribute copies of these bi-annual and monthly catalogs to their own proprietary consumer lists, both physical and electronic.

May's edition of the ASMC is full of products that discerning HO, N and O modelers desire. A few of the highlights are surprise announcements of the all new N Trainman® 60' Passenger Car and O Trainman® C&O Cupola Caboose. We didn't forget about HO modelers - there's plenty of exciting products to fill their needs - including the Master line GP40-2W Locomotive, 70 Ton Hart Ballast Car & more! You'll find all of those wonderful models and more inside, as well as arriving freight cars, locomotives and track in all scales.

Happy reading!

Joe Kolnoski
Vice President, Sales

Atlas N scale FMC boxcar

Manufacturer
Atlas Model Railroad Co.
378 Florence Ave.
Hillside, NJ 07205
www.atlasrr.com
Era: late 1980s to present (as painted)
Road names: Burlington Northern; Atlanta & St. Andrews Bay; Atlantic & Western; Cadiz RR; Escanaba & Lake Superior; Lake Erie, Franklin & Clarion; Port Huron & Detroit; and Railbox. Three road numbers per paint scheme; also available undecorated (early and late body styles).
Comments: For more than 40 years, the full-size FMC 5,077-cubic-foot-capacity boxcar has been plying the rails. Now you can add this car to your N scale roster thanks to the latest release from Atlas Model Railroad Co. The model features a one-piece injection-molded plastic body, etched-metal crossover platforms, molded grab irons, and a separately applied brakewheel on the B end of the car. The plastic underbody features pin-mounted trucks; body-mounted Accumate couplers; and molded center sills, crossbearers, crossties, and brake appliances.

Atlas offers the FMC 5077 boxcar in two body styles. The early version (shown here) was produced from 1975 through April 1976. It features long grab irons and wide end panels. The late version (post April 1976) have shorter grabs and narrow end panels.

Our sample is decorated in Burlington Northern's simplified scheme, used from the late 1980s until 1991. The Cascade Green paint is smooth and evenly applied, with prototypical overspray on the roof. The white printing is opaque and legible.

The model's dimensions match prototype drawings published in the 1980 edition of The Car and Locomotive Cyclopedia (Simmons-Boardman Publishing Corp.)

The model weighs 1.2 ounces, which is .9 ounce too light per National Model Railroad Association recommended practice 20.1. The metal wheelsets are correctly gauged, and the couplers are at the correct height.

Atlas did a great job capturing the lines of the FMC boxcar. The model would look right at home in a freight train or spotted at an industry. – C.G.

Coil car in HO models a heavy industry workhorse

An HO scale model of a 52-foot coil steel car with distinctive fish-belly side sills is now available from Atlas Model Railroad Co. The ready-to-run car is based on a modern prototype introduced by Canada's National Steel Car Co. in the mid-1990s. The new NSC cars are 51'-10" long with a 42'-0" trough down the center that holds 104 tons of steel coils ranging from 30" to 84" in diameter. The cars are 10'-6" wide and 6'-7" tall at the cover guides in the corners.

The model. The Atlas car is a superbly detailed replica. It has a two-ounce die-cast metal trough enclosed within the plastic body shell. The plastic running boards and end platforms have a see-through effect. The plastic underbody is light on brake system details, but this is concealed behind the side sills. The steps, vertical grab irons, brake wheel, and brake housing are separate parts.

The model includes a removable one-piece hood, which prototype railroads often mix between similar cars. The hood is molded plastic with added metal details. Its center lift bracket and both storage brackets are individually applied, as are the wire side railings and corner grab irons. The hood also has a concealed two-ounce steel weight. Small guides are located in the four corners of the body to position the hood, but it's a tight fit, so care is required to avoid damage as you add or remove the hood.

Our model came smoothly painted in the bright red and silver of the Columbus & Greenville RR (CAGY). Its heralds and data panels were clearly printed and legible under magnification.

Our sample has rigid-frame acetal plastic 100-ton roller bearing trucks with needle-point axles. All of the wheelsets have RP-25 contour metal wheels that matched the National Model Railroad Association gauge.

Body-mounted Accumate couplers are included, but they were .020" low, so some adjustments will be necessary.

With the hood in place, the sample car weighs 4 ounces, which is close to NMRA Recommended Practice 20.1.

Overall, Atlas has done an excellent job of capturing the prototype's simple design and interesting details. Modelers of today's railroads and heavy industries will certainly want a few of these modern steel coil cars on their layouts. Well done! – J.D.H.
